From the President/CEO

Dear Friends,

The 2011-2012 fiscal year has been a year of transition for The Gathering Place. After celebrating our 25th anniversary and looking back at all that we had accomplished in those 25 years, we moved into a season of organizational evaluation and strategic thinking. One of our first undertakings was to revise our mission statement. The previous statement was a good description of what it is that we do, but our new mission statement reveals the heart of The Gathering Place philosophy: We are a community of safety and hope where positive relationships, choice, and essential resources transform lives.

Community. Relationships. Choice. Resources. Life transformation. Since our beginnings, each of these concepts has played a key role in solidifying the foundation of our work. And as we continue to provide daytime, drop-in services to women, children, and transgender individuals experiencing homelessness or poverty, these concepts will be at the forefront of our service model.

Once we established a new mission statement, we turned our sights to revising our organizational vision statement. As we began this process, city officials proposed an urban camping ban that raised the issue of where homeless individuals could or could not sleep at night. Our hearts swelled when members of The Gathering Place spoke up at city council meetings, sharing their personal stories and concerns. And our alliances with others—nonprofit organizations, businesses, funders, and individuals—strengthened as we sought solutions in the wake of an ordinance that was passed and went into effect despite the lack of overnight shelter spaces available, specifically for the unaccompanied women we serve.

In the midst of this experience, we came to the realization that we, as an organization, have a responsibility to demonstrate our commitment to our unwavering beliefs in the intrinsic value of each individual and the role that community and relationships play in life transformation. As we believe in our organization, we want our members to believe in themselves, their strengths, and the profoundly simple concept that their voices and lives matter. It is our desire for those both inside and outside the walls of The Gathering Place to understand the connectedness of our humanity and that what happens to one eventually affects us all.

We emerge from this year, refined, yet resolute in the principles that guide us. Thank you for standing with us and for your continued support of The Gathering Place.

Sincerely,

Leslie Foster

From the Board Chair

Dear Friends,

The 2011-2012 fiscal year was an important one of renewed purpose and direction at The Gathering Place. We revised our mission statement and completed a new vision statement. We affirmed our leadership position in the community on issues surrounding homelessness and poverty. And we created a new fundraising campaign—Beyond the Basics—that aims to secure multi-year pledges to both sustain our current programs and ensure the future financial stability of The Gathering Place.

In each of these endeavors, we've found ourselves driven back to our foundational beliefs in individual relationships and community. Through individual relationships, we understand the need for the programs and services provided by The Gathering Place.

I experienced this first hand when I arrived at The Gathering Place a little early for our board meeting one Thursday afternoon. I was encouraged to join the members for snack—the afternoon meal at The Gathering Place—and soon found myself engaged in conversation with those at my table. Through that conversation, I heard about struggles and difficulties, successes and hope, and was reminded once again of the importance of sharing life's journey with one another.

I was also reminded of the role that community plays in the day to day activities and long term success of The Gathering Place. The meal that afternoon was being provided through a meal sponsorship, a program through which businesses, community groups, schools, families, and individuals pay for, prepare, and serve one of the three daily meals at The Gathering Place. These meal sponsorships help to offset the cost of providing the meals, but more importantly extend the reach of those involved in our community by forging new alliances and partnerships on our behalf.

As the need for the services that The Gathering Place provides continues to increase, we know that these partnerships—both old and new—and their connections to new volunteers, new resources, and new funding streams will pave the way for our future stability and success.

I want to thank you for continued support of The Gathering Place and for the invaluable role you play in our community.

Sincerely,

Rachel Basye

The Gathering Place receives the Mayor's Award on Diversity

The Gathering Place was honored to be chosen as the recipient of the Denver Mayor's Award on Diversity in the fall of 2011. We were nominated for the award by The Denver Women's Commission, who said that they admired our agency's overall commitment to diversity, but were particularly impressed by our efforts to serve those in the transgender community experiencing homelessness or poverty.

Many of our efforts around diversity can and should be credited to Team Inclusion (pictured at right), one of the internal committees at The Gathering Place. Over the past year, this committee has worked diligently to create a plan focused on how we include and serve transgender individuals. To do this, our staff and board of directors completed Transgender 101 training and engaged in numerous conversations about how to be a welcoming, safe, and inclusive community. During 2012, the committee has been working to develop an inclusivity strategic plan, so we can better serve all who seek refuge here. Kudos to Team Inclusion and thank you to the Mayor's office for recognizing the importance of reaching and serving underserved populations!

A life transformed: Pam's story

Pam's journey—one that involved leaving behind a life filled with substance abuse and self-doubt—began on October 10, 2008 when she was arrested for identity theft. "I had smoked cocaine for almost 30 years and had been somewhat of a functioning addict," Pam says. "But things had started to unravel. I had become homeless, lost my family's support, and nobody believed in me because I didn't believe in myself."

After receiving a two year misdemeanor deferred sentence for her offense, Pam found her way to The Gathering Place via The Empowerment Program, an organization that works with women who have been involved in the criminal justice system. "I had never been to a facility like this before," she says about The Gathering Place. "It was my safe place."

Pam was introduced to Debra MacKillop (pictured with her, on the left), our Housing Stabilization Advocate, and enrolled in our Housing Stabilization Program. "While all of that was going on, I was learning that I wasn't a failure," she says. "I learned to love myself."

Pam now lives with one of her sisters and cared for her last year as she battled cancer. She started her own business, A Gentle Touch, as well, through which she cleans houses, does small repair and remodel jobs, and stages homes for sale. She also volunteers regularly at her church's food pantry, visits The Gathering Place often to share information about resources, and is planning to sponsor someone in a local addiction recovery support group. "Now I get to spend my time giving back for what was given to me," she says with a smile.

Being known: Rita's story

Rita lost her job almost two years ago as a Certified Nursing Assistant because of a physical disability that required two subsequent surgeries on her feet. As a result, she also lost her housing, so she and her three young sons—ages 6, 9, and 10—are now staying in an overnight shelter that closes during the daytime. While the boys are in school, Rita comes to The Gathering Place to accomplish her daily activities such as doing laundry, taking a shower, and using the computers and phones.

“It’s just really nice to have somewhere to go during the day where I can get resources, meet different people, make friends, and feel like I count,” Rita says. “It’s kind of like having your own great big house, with a lot of friends in it.”

Rita says that her short-term goals include getting some type of job and permanent housing again. Long term, she hopes to get her associates degree and finish the paralegal program at the Community College of Denver.

“We feel welcome at The Gathering Place,” she says. “It’s a lot better than feeling like you’re another number or just another person. The staff members and volunteers get to know you, know your name. They remember you and remember your children.”

Bridget's Boutique Remodeled

Bridget's Boutique, the clothing distribution program at The Gathering Place, was remodeled in the spring of 2012, an undertaking coordinated by Shannon Wade (pictured at far right with Joy Wagner and Bridget Johnson), a 2011 graduate of the Rocky Mountain College of Art + Design (RMCAD).

“The rest of the building is beautiful,” says Wagner, interior design faculty member at RMCAD and advisor for the project. “We wanted the boutique to match it.”

Materials donated by IKEA took care of the furniture and organization system needs. Knoll Textiles provided material for curtains in the space and RMCAD provided paint and supplies. Then, a team of volunteers including Wade and Wagner's family members, students and faculty from RMCAD, and employees of Convergent Technologies, met at The Gathering Place to paint, assemble shelving, hang curtains, and completely make over the Boutique.

The new design provides ample space for clothes by utilizing multiple levels of hanging space in the wardrobes. There are also shoe racks, a wall unit full of plastic bins for bra storage, and a mobile unit with drawers to store new socks and underwear.

“I’m excited to have such a beautiful, redesigned space,” says Bridget Johnson, The Gathering Place’s personal services coordinator who runs the Boutique. “Being able to look for clothing in a space like this is a dignifying experience, which is exactly what we want.”

WORKPLACE GIVING CAMPAIGNS

We are extremely grateful to the employers who offer their employees the opportunity to give to nonprofit organizations—such as The Gathering Place—through workplace giving campaigns. In the 2011-2012 fiscal year, we received contributions from employees through the following workplace giving programs:

Allstate Giving Campaign
City of Westminster
Colorado Housing & Finance Authority
Community Shares of Colorado
Employees Charitable Organization of
Northrup Grummon (ECHO)
EnCana Oil & Gas (USA) Inc.

GE United Way Campaign
Great-West Life & Annuity
Insurance Company
Hunter Douglas Employee Giving
Campaign
Microsoft Giving Campaign
Mile High United Way

National Renewable Energy Laboratories
Siemens Caring Hands Giving Campaign
TIAA-CREF Employee Giving Campaign
Truist
Venoco Community Partnership
Wells Fargo Community Support Campaign

BEYOND THE BASICS CAMPAIGN

Difficult economic times, combined with constraints in public funding, and a number of other factors have increased the demand for many services and programs offered by The Gathering Place. Beyond the Basics is a $2,000,000 community campaign designed to fund and sustain our core programs and services.

The four key areas of this campaign are: Crisis Services, Essential Resources, Health, Wellness & Nutrition, and Children & Families Program. Involvement in this campaign allows donors to extend their reach in ways that will meet immediate needs, protect much-needed programs, and secure the future of this invaluable community organization. Thank you to the following individuals and groups for their funding commitments, made during the 2011-2012 fiscal year:
